THE LAFAYETTE RIOT.

Rudolph, the Victim of the Assault, Takes the Stand.

Relating the Sensational Occurrences of the Memorable Night When the Mob Held Sway.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 23.—The testimony in the Rudolph riot cases, which are on trial in the circuit court here, began yesterday, the feature of the proceedings being the evidence of the assaulted ex-Priest Rudolph. The court room was crowded and the evidence was listened to with the most intense interest and the closest attention.

A motion was made by the defense at the opening of court to separate the witnesses. Judge Langdon stated that before this was done the witnesses for the defense would have to be all subpoened. Colonel DeHart stated that the defense did not know their witnesses, except Mr. Rudolph, who had been subpoened for both the state and the defense, and as their witnesses entered they would have them sworn and sent out. The motion was overruled.

All witnesses for the state were sworn, after which Will R. Wood, prosecutor, made the opening statement to the jury, stating the penalty for the crime charged and what the state expected to prove.

Mr. Wood stated that the penalty provided for the punishment of the defendant, if convicted, was a sentence of from two to fourteen years in the penitentiary, and a fine not exceeding $2,000. The state expects to prove that the A. P. A. was organized some nine or ten months ago, the object of which was the protection of the laws of this government and the religious views of all people, unless these views were in opposition to the free institutions of our country.

The state further expects to prove that the Catholics appointed committees to discover who composed the membership of the A. P. A.; that the Lafayette Sunday Times has published inflammatory articles on the A. P. A., that Prof. Rudolph lectured at the Christian church and subsequently he lectured at the opera house on the subject, "Why I Left the Romish Church;" that members of the Catholic church organized a company of men to destroy that meeting; that there were threats that if Rudolph attempted to deliver the lecture he would be murdered, and that the men congregated and received their instructions at the places of Bart J. Murphy and Phillip McCauley, that a number of the men went up Main and Columbia streets, formed at the alley at the opera house, knocked at the stage door, a young man let them in and he was dragged out. They asked where the gas-meter was, with a view of turning out the lights. The young doorkeeper, not knowing where the meter was, they let him go, and rushed on the stage, intending to drop the curtain, secure Rudolph and murder him.

It would be shown that John Riley and William Mackessy were designated to grab Rudolph and drag him off the stage; that Riley attempted to strike Rudolph with a pole, that Mackessy took a hand, and that Rudolph shot over the heads of these men. It would be shown that while this noise was going on that Mr. Murphy rose in his place in the auditorium and fired at Rudolph; that Murphy came to the opera house early in the evening with five others and paid their way and refused to be seated; that after he first seated his companions he took a seat himself, and when the trouble began fired three shots at the speaker; that Rudolph was shot on the finger; that the ball entered the abdomen and was still there that the ball was fired by Murphy, and that Murphy said just before Rudolph entered the carriage, "D— him, we'll get him before he gets out of this town."

George P. Rudolph was the first witness called by the state. Testifying, he stated that he was forty-nine years old, resided in Clyde, Ohio, was born in the southern part of Switzerland and had resided in this country since 1869. He was a lecturer and teacher, had been a priest twelve years and ten months in the diocese of Cleveland, Ohio, and left the priesthood, March 19, 1881. Came to Lafayette to deliver a lecture on January 27, 1893, of his own accord on "The Present Attitude of Romanism Toward the United States." Was requested by a rising vote to deliver a lecture at the opera house on the evening of January 26, 1893. The opera house lecture was under the auspices of the A. P. A., of which he is a member; while here boarded at the house of Mrs Harry Johnson, 222 Columbia street; on the stage with him were A. G. Guion, Harrod D. Johnson, Frank S. Crapp and Nat Coddington; the house and gallery were packed with men, women and children; began his lecture and had talked half an hour Rudolph was asked by Mr. Haywood if he had said anything in that time against the Catholic church. The defense objected and the state was requested to put its reasons in writing. The jury was sent to the ante room while the matter was being argued. It was the purpose of the state to show that there was no cause for heat of passion to provoke the assault. The question was not allowed and a recess of five minutes was taken.

On a resume of the examination Mr. Rudolph stated that he was interrupted by confusion in the stairway from the stage door and stopped speaking; saw a pole stuck through and threats made at the scene which fell and would have crushed him had he not evaded it; received a severe blow on the right hand and the little finger was thrown out of joint was struck several times by the pole and staggered once, picked up his coat and drew out his revolver man with the pole said: "Get out of that, get out of that." He told the men to stand back, could have killed him but fired over his shoulder, was shot in the hand while getting his coat and saturated a newspaper and handkerchief with blood. Upon being fired at the intruders left the hall, five or six shots were fired from the audience, principally from section F, did not discover he had been shot in the abdomen until he was preparing to go to bed, and called on Louis Kimmel, jr, to witness the wound; was wearing the identical suit of clothes and underwear he wore on the night of the trouble. The holes in the clothes were shown to the jury by the witness, and also the scar in his abdomen; also the scar on the finger of the left hand. The witness further stated that he discovered the bullet in his abdomen after a thorough examination of his clothing; put liniment on the wound, laid a cloth over it and went to bed. Had Dr. C. W. Shill to examine the wound the next morning. The question by the state to have the witness repeat his lecture as far as he proceeded that night was not allowed. Mr. Rudolph stated that, with men who assisted him, the rioters were driven from the stage; he made an effort to continue the lecture and was interrupted by hooting, yelling and the throwing of icicles from the gallery. Several gentlemen came on the stage, and one, Frank Brown, addressed the audience, and was hooted down. The witness made several efforts to address the audience; there was fighting going on in the audience, was insulted and hooted down; a deputy sheriff was hooted down, the sheriff proper came, and the witness asked him to clear the gallery, that he was determined to complete the lecture; the sheriff said that he had no men; witness told him he could furnish him all the men he needed; the gallery was cleared; some of the auditors remarked "Knock him down!" "Kill him!" Many more insulting remarks were made. The gallery being cleared the sheriff again made an effort to address the audience and was hooted down. The witness stated that he then denounced the rioters, mayor and police "I denounced the riot as a diabolical outrage on the part of the Catholic church I denounced the police as a dirty, filthy, traitorous Clan-na-Gael clique. I denounced the mayor as a miserable, good for nothing caricature of a person. I held a silk handkerchief saturated with blood before the footlights and called upon the rioters to come down and worship this only rag of Romanism." The witness left the opera house in company with Sheriff Gaddis in a carriage and was driven to the Johnson residence. The witness was then passed by the state.

In his cross-examination the witness stated that when he came to America he went to Cleveland, Ohio, and studied theology there; also being ordained in that city. Went next to Defiance, Ohio; then to Port Clinton, Ohio, then to Liverpool, Ohio, and finally to Clyde, Ohio. The witness stated that he was a professor of the science of languages in a Buffalo, N. Y., college; was married in 1881, and had children; knew two gentlemen in Lafayette before he came here, one of whom is John Kolb; is a member of the A. P. A., and organizes these lodges, but this is not his principal business; is correspondent of different newspapers, one the Patriotic American, of Detroit, Mich., and wrote the article of the riot in that paper, of date of February 4, visited the A. P. A. organization before the lecture; did not know how many shots were fired toward the stage while he was speaking, knew that there was more than one; had made a statement in his article in the Patriotic American how many shots were fired, but could make no statement while under oath. Frank Moore assisted him in driving some men off the stage; the first flash of a shot in the audience came from the left of the speaker.

Professor Rudolph was on the witness stand until nearly 5 o'clock. He was put through a rigid cross examination by the lawyers for the defense.

The next witness was Dr. Charles W. Shill, of this city. His evidence was the first direct testimony bearing against the defendant, Bartholomew J. Murphy. The doctor testified to seeing a man level his revolver from the west side of the opera house, and take deliberate aim in the direction of Rudolph, who was on the stage, and fire. Being asked if the man he saw shoot was in the court room, the doctor turned around and, pointing his hand at the defendant, said.

"That is the man Murphy, the defendant in this case."

The witness said he could not be mistaken that he took a good look at the man, whose name he did not know at the time. He repeated that he was positive Murphy was the man he saw fire.

HOWLING WINDS.

A Terrific Cyclone Sweeps Over the South and West

Uprooting Trees, Unroofing Houses and Carrying Great Destruction In Its Path.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 24.—The path of a cyclone which entered Tennessee yesterday afternoon in a southwesterly direction from Mississippi, appears to have been about twenty miles in width, although serious damage was confined to a much smaller area.

The wires are down in all directions. There is no telegraphic communication whatever with Nashville and intervening points, and little news is obtainable from places visited by the cyclone.

This city barely escaped. A heavy rain fell and a high wind blew at the time the cyclone raged and it became as dark as night for thirty minutes. Heavy damage was done to trees and small out buildings.

A train from Birmingham, Ala., arrived late last night and reports much damage between here and Byhalia, twenty miles east. Farm houses, barns and cotton gin houses are reported unroofed and blown down all along the line and the train was delayed several hours by having to stop at frequent intervals to chop a way through trees that were uprooted and blown across the track.

Heavy damage by the cyclone is reported at Capitville, Tenn., and Olive Branch, Miss. At 2:30 o'clock this morning the wire at Kelly, Miss., was tapped, and late details show that the early reports were not exaggerated. Not a house escaped the storm's fury, and only a few are left standing, and they are badly damaged. The house of Roland Cox was lifted bodily and blown away, not a piece of timber being left. The house of Robert Stevens was leveled and is a heap of ruins. The residence of D. N. Harris, a wealthy planter, was wrecked, and the houses of four of his tenants were blown away. Three houses belonging to S. Hubbell were blown down.

The wind indulged in a queer freak with the dwelling house of W. C. Boggs. It formerly faced north. It still stands in a damaged condition, but now faces south.

VICKSBURG, Miss., March 24.—Passengers on the midnight train from Memphis say that the storm spent its force between Tunica and Shaw's Station. These towns are about seventy miles apart and on the railroad. At Shaw's Station six stores were blown down and a few persons were wounded, but none fatally.

In Tunica the storm left wreck and ruin in its wake. The Masonic and Knights of Pythias building, a handsome two-story frame structure, is a total wreck. The white Presbyterian church and the colored Methodist Episcopal church were blown down. The court house roof was blown off, and the colored school building, a two-story frame structure, was blown down on 150 children. Several of them were badly hurt. The dwelling of H. A. Higginbotham is a total wreck. The store house of Leo Leeser and quite a number of other buildings are badly damaged. The loss will reach into the thousands.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., March 24.—A terrible cyclone passed over this city last night at 7.45 o'clock. Great damage was done. The Louisville and Nashville round house was totally wrecked. About fifteen engines of the Louisville and Nashville company were badly damaged. No lives are thought to have been lost. William Ford's new building, one of the handsomest buildings in the city, was unroofed, as were many others. There is much excitement and it is an impossibility to get any details.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 24.—A violent wind and rain storm passed over this section about 7 o'clock last night, doing a large amount of damage. Property in the city escaped damage from the wind, but cellars in all portions of the city were flooded, causing many just completed for new buildings to cave in. An immense amount of damage was done in the country to buildings and trees. The southeast wing of the southern asylum for the insane, six miles east of the city, was blown down. The new station house of the Evansville, Suburban & Newburg railroad near the asylum was completely demolished. Several farm houses are reported wrecked, fruit trees blown down and out-buildings blown from foundations.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 24.—The storm of hail and sleet which prevailed yesterday rendering the roads almost impassable has changed to snow today which is falling steadily with a stiff north wind. The fall of snow in Dakota yesterday was phenomenal for this season, over a foot having been deposited over that region and trains have been badly blocked. At midnight the storm there seemed to be increasing in severity.

DULUTH, Minn., March 24.—A heavy snow storm is raging here today. This is the third day of snow. Wind north west. The temperature remains at about 5 degrees above. The heavy snow is seriously affecting logging operation, and the lumbermen in this vicinity are becoming discouraged.

CHICAGO, March 24.—Storms continue to rage throughout the northwest and the telegraphic embargo has not yet been raised. In the vicinity of Duluth it has snowed for three days without intermission and the thermometer registers only five above zero. Railroad and street car traffic is practically suspended and business of all kind is seriously impeded. At Minneapolis the down pour of rain and sleet has changed to snow today. A high wind drifts the snow and renders travel difficult. Advices from Montana and the Dakotas show a snow storm of unprecedented extent and severity to be raging. Trains are moving slowly when they move at all and mails from along the route of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern roads are delayed from a few hours to two days. In the southwest last night's storm of rain and wind has given way to a cold wave. At St. Louis the thermometer has fallen rapidly and the sky has cleared. Similar reports come from Nebraska and Kansas. News from the region of last night's cyclone in the south is difficult to obtain, but so far as heard from the weather is generally clearing. Along the lakes there is a high wind but no rain or snow.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 24.—A cyclone of death and destruction swept Tennessee last night and only this morning could anything definite be be learned. Half of the big state penitentiary, which covers eighty acres of ground, was torn to pieces, entailing an enormous loss. The convicts, five hundred in number, had just moved out of the mess hall when the building collapsed and had they remained longer would have been killed.

A two story brick in North Nashville was blown down, killing Alex and Eugene Drumright outright, and horribly mashing W. T. Crossford, who is fatally hurt. W. R. Wright, his wife and two children, who were in the building, were submerged in the debris and were more or less wounded. Out at Derdem, a suburban town, the entire place was obliterated by the storm and fire. The damage to Nashville property alone is over $100,000. The cyclone ploughed its way down the Cumberland Valley and destroyed property and life, but wires are down and nothing definite can be learned.

ANDERSON, Ind., March 24.—Last night's wind storm did considerable damage. The tin roof was blown off the Olympic theatre building and several store windows were broken. The telephone, fire alarm and electric street car wires became crossed. Fire alarms were thus rung and several telephone boxes burned out.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 24.—Passenger train No. 5 on the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis railroad, ran into a tree, which had been blown across the track by the high wind a few miles south of Huntingburg, Ind., last night. The engineer, fireman and one trainman were slightly injured by the shock. The train was delayed about five hours. The damage to the rolling stock is nominal.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 24.—A messenger returned from Kelly at 11 o'clock and reports that the town is swept away. Kelly is a small town on the line of the Kansas City road, fifteen miles south of Memphis. The cyclone struck it yesterday evening at 2 o'clock. W. W. Bennan, a school teacher, saw the signs of a storm and dismissed his pupils. In five minutes the school house was torn to pieces. Bennan's store was blown down, part of the depot was torn away and the telegraph poles were blown across the tracks. Of thirty houses, fifteen were swept away and the rest were demolished. A negro named Harris was killed. George Payne's skull was crushed, his wife's arm was broken and his five children were more or less injured.

Meagre reports have been received from the country west of Kelly. All the negro plantation houses have been blown away and it is said that many of these people have been killed. Three school houses were blown down, but no one was killed. At Tunica, Miss., the Masonic and Knights of Pythias hall was blown down and several dwelling houses were wrecked.

East of Kelly the storm struck the Memphis and Charleston railroad and wrecked a freight train near Germantown. Around Kelly 500 people are homeless and in great need. The track of the cyclone was half a mile wide and its duration in Kelly was not greater than four minutes.

NEW ORLEANS, March 24.—Passengers and trainmen on the Valley train which arrived this morning, say that the tornado yesterday played havoc at Tunica, but the damage was confined principally to that town, so far as those on the train were able to learn and no lives were lost. Tunica is a town of about 231 people, and when the train stopped there last night the place presented the picture of a complete wreck.

Houses had been torn to pieces by the wind, a school house and the churches of the village had been razed to the ground and other buildings badly damaged were supported only by a few timbers. A number of people sustained serious bruises and there were some broken limbs, but miraculously no one was killed.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 24.—The high wind storm was general in this vicinity and reports from different places in the state show that considerable damage was done. In the northwestern part of the city and county many buildings were wrecked and several persons were injured. The entire roof of the Ceraline mill was blown off.

At Leesgoole a three story flour mill was blown down. The residence of James McCord, at McCordsville, was blown down and Mr. McCord was fatally injured. At Alexandria the Lippincott Lamp Flue factory was partially unroofed and Wm. Angeline and his son were killed by falling timber.

Mrs. Merryman, of Division street, is visiting friends in Hoagland, Ind.

GETS NO DAMAGES.

Joseph Hartman Cannot Recover for the Death of His Wife,

Who Was Killed at Indianapolis by Being Run Over by a Street Car—News in Our Local Courts.

Yesterday afternoon at Indianapolis, in the case of Joseph Hartman, of Fort Wayne, administrator of the estate of his wife, Josephine Hartman, against the Citizen's Street Railroad company, after the evidence and arguments had been heard, Judge Bartholomew instructed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant.

These instructions were based upon the fact, as shown in the evidence, that Mrs. Hartman unnecessarily left the car at Massachusetts avenue and Delaware street while it was in motion.

The lady was run over about a year ago at Indianapolis by the trailer and received injuries from which she died several hours later at St. Vincent's infirmary in that city.

LA GRIPPE AGAIN.

New York Once More in the Throes of the Dread Disease.

Many Deaths Occurring Every Day in the Metropolis as a Result of It.

NEW YORK, March 24.—While the health authorities were congratulating themselves that New York would be spared a visitation of influenza, the dread disease already had come and was settling on the city, each day apparently giving it a firmer hold. For the first ten weeks of 1893, only thirteen deaths were put under the head of influenza and grip. For the single week ending March 18, eleven deaths from this disease were recorded. For the corresponding week of 1892, only nineteen deaths were attributed to this cause. In the last four days there have been twelve deaths from grip. Yesterday there were five. Yesterday's deaths included thirty from pneumonia, eleven from phthisis and eight from bronchitis, all of which diseases are influenced more or less by the grip.

AN OLD LAW SUIT

Results in a Bitter Feud and Several Persons are Almost Killed.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 24.—Advices from Carrollton state that a band of masked men last night visited four houses on the Alabama line and whipped several people almost to death. Two women were outraged and several men brutally beaten. The locality is in the mountain section where there are many moonshiners. The trouble seems to have grown out of an old feud. Seven of the eleven men charged with participating in the outrages have been caught.

Sam Bowen may die from the beating he received. Mr. Bowen was outraged by one of the party. The trouble seems to be an outgrowth of a law suit between a family named Benford and a Mrs. White over some property. Two of the Benfords are under arrest. Mrs. White was one of those assaulted. The persons arrested vigorously deny any knowledge of the affair. Some of them are prominent citizens.

INDIANS DANCING.

Another Uprising Imminent in the Indian Territory.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 24.—Dispatches from two points in the eastern part of the Indian Territory last night indicate an Indian uprising imminent among the Kiowas, Otoes and Missouris. They have been dancing for a week and are performing old time superstitious cruelties. The chief of the Kiowas has arrived at Tahlequah for assistance. He is not in sympathy with the uprising and cannot control his tribe. The Missouris and Otoes have been running wild in blankets for weeks declaring against further invasion by whites. Chief Kirwin of the Kiowas, who is at Tahlequah, says that assistance must come at once or the whites will be massacred.

HORRIBLE DEED.

A Drunken Husband Ends a Spree in Attempted Murder.

CASSOPOLIS, Mich., March 24.—Wednesday night Hiram Cox, a farmer living near Wakloo, about eight miles northeast of here, struck his wife with a club, crushing in her skull. Cox then went to a piece of woods near by and attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a pocket knife. They were not found until Thursday morning. Mrs. Cox cannot live. Cox is conscious, but refuses to talk. It is supposed he committed the deed while under the influence of liquor. Cox is a rich farmer.

At 11 o'clock this morning a street car accident occurred at the corner of Calhoun and Main streets. Main street car No. 26 ran into the rear of Hanna street car No. 22. The Hanna street car was badly damaged but no one was hurt.

HE WAS A CHINAMAN

And Because of This Crime a Mob Would Hang Him.

The Geary Law Enforced Ahead of Time—An Episode of the Wild, Woolly West.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., March 24.—The city of Great Falls has never allowed a Chinaman to remain within its municipal limits. One came in from Helena on yesterday afternoon's Great Northern train and began to walk about the streets. It soon became known, and a crowd soon gathered to begin the local enforcement of the Geary law ahead of time. The Chinaman was seized and taken across the river with the injunction not to show his head in town again. He returned, however, went to the Montana hotel, and threw down a twenty dollar gold piece to treat the crowd. The news flew like wild fire and a mob of 300 or 400 was soon after him. Sergeant Moran, aided by other police men, was soon on the spot, and seizing the Chinaman, hurried him off to jail. The race was a hot one, but he was safely lodged in jail. Workingmen formed a committee and demanded to know what the authorities would do. They were told he would be sent out of town the next day. They were satisfied with this and cheered loudly. There were loud threats of hanging and other violence, but all is now quiet.

RATHER SENSATIONAL

Are the Developments at Toledo.

An Alleged Attempt to Wreck a Train Upon Which Manager Ashley Was Riding.

TOLEDO, Ohio, March 24.—Things are running smoothly and quietly on the Ann Arbor road today. It was feared that the strikers would again commence annoying the non-union men now that there is a lull in the court proceedings. General Manager Ashley says that there is no truth in the report sent out last night that a train was ditched upon the road by sympathizers of the strikers. He says he has investigated and found that it was purely an accident and the fault of the switchman. No one was injured. Judge Ricks has requested Judge Taft to preside with him Monday, and he has consented to be present. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is expected here next week. His coming will have something to do with the Ann Arbor strike, [illegible] has not been divulged.

TOLEDO, March 24.—[illegible] Sensational facts in the Ann Arbor trouble came to light this afternoon. It seems that on Wednesday night an attempt was made to wreck the Ann Arbor train in which General Manager H. W. Ashley, of the road, was a passenger. The matter was hushed up in the hopes of ascertaining the names of the perpetrators.

The derailment occurred one mile north of Owosso, Mich., and it was almost by a miracle that the train and its living freight was saved from dashing over a trestle down the embankment.

The company this afternoon offers $1,000 reward for the apprehension of the men who caused the derailment.

A few days ago a case of cruelty to a child was reported to Humane Officer Schlaudroff. The report was that a father had whipped his young son in a fearful manner with a black snake whip. Officer Schlaudroff investigated the matter and found that there was no truth in the statement, but that the father gave the boy's older brother a good switching and the little fellow did the yelling. Both needed a good tanning, no doubt.

A dispatch to the Indianapolis Journal from Muncie says: "Muncie now stands ready to do her part with any of the other cities in the state for the formation of a state base ball league. Today a man was sent to the Kokomo meeting with a check for $1,000 ready to present Muncie's claim for a place in a substantial manner. If the proposed six club association, composed of Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Lafayette, Anderson, Muncie and Fort Wayne is organized, Muncie will get her club in that league in preference to all others. So far as this city is concerned the other towns can organize as quickly as possible and Muncie will have her park team and all the money necessary right on time.

The concert at the Wayne street M. E. church last night was one of the most enjoyable ever given in Fort Wayne. The quartet is exceptionally fine and the readings of Miss Jessie Wright were much above the standard. Miss Hattie Lee Hasty, who accompanies the quartet is a sympathetic and talented musician, and her piano work is a valuable aid to the vocalists. Mr. Samuel Johns, first tenor and Mr. C. N. Hassler, baritone, are deserving of special mention, Mr. Johns voice being of a remarkably pure tenor quality, soft and sweet as a woman's, yet without the faintest trace of the too prevalent falsetto of the high tenor. Mr. Hassler's baritone solo, "Boat Song," by Nevin, was the solo gem of the evening. Fort Wayne will certainly honor the Schumann's with a crowded house on their next appearance.

SPOILED BUTTER.

A Farmer Arrested and Fined for Selling It.

Health Officer Miller Examines C. Kohlenberger's Farm Product—It Was Vile.

It depends upon the people of Fort Wayne to say just how long they will continue to be imposed upon by dishonest dairymen, farmers and other unscrupulous persons who sell impure or adulterated food.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon Officer Kennelly was notified that a farmer was trying to sell some butter which was half lard at Charles Rose's grocery store, on East Wayne street. The officer hastened around the corner and took into custody Ernst Breckman and C. Kohlenberg, two farmers living eight miles east of the city on the Piqua road. Kohlenberg had two baskets of butter made up of two and three pound rolls. They were cut open and in the center of them was found a dirty compound which looked like stale grease and flour mixed to the consistency of butter.

Health Officer Miller was sent for and at once took a sample of the butter to a neighboring drug store. Here it was developed that the inside was decomposed and not fit to eat.

Both laymen were seen at the police station by a SENTINEL reporter shortly after their arrest. Kohlenberg is a son-in-law of Breckman. The former said that the butter was made by his wife and disclaimed any knowledge of how the adulteration got into the butter. He had evidently been reading THE SENTINEL and said: "We don't feed malt or slops to our cows and I don't know how to account for the butter being spoiled."

Kohlenberg was tried before Mayor Zollinger a few minutes later. He professed ignorance and was fined $10 and costs, the whole amounting to $21.50. He paid the fine. The mayor decided that the article was only decomposed and not adulterated.

GOVERNOR FLOWER has declared that no prize fight shall occur in the state of New York while he is executive. Good for Governor Flower.

THE Lafayette riot cases are attracting considerable attention all over the state. THE SENTINEL today gives considerable space to the first day's proceedings of the trial.

THE baptist year is just out. The increase in membership of this flourishing denomination during the past year in round numbers has been [illegible] and the entire numerical strength is [illegible]. This table covers the period since the reconstruction of the union was fully accomplished after the civil war.

THE state board of health has issued a circular to the health officers of Indiana. It says there is great danger of the Asiatic cholera invading the country the coming summer months, and that the officials should recognize the necessity of placing the state in such a sanitary condition that if the plague comes it will find no soil in which to [illegible]. Health boards are ordered to make a thorough [illegible] of their respective districts [illegible]

THE county commissioners did the right thing in increasing the salaries of our circuit and superior court judges, but they should have made it $1500. The petition for the increase which was signed by our heaviest tax payers and about twenty leading farmers, asked that the salaries be $1500, and the evidence all shows that the places were worth this amount. As the matter now stands, the county does not pay a cent more, by the action of the commissioners than heretofore. Under the old law, the county paid $2000 of the judges' salaries, under the new law the state pays each judge $2,500, and the county will now pay each of them $1000, which is just the amount the county has always paid them. It was perhaps, the desire not to increase the amount paid by the county, that induced the commissioners to fix the judges' salaries at $1500, but we believe that in this instance, as our people cannot afford to have cheap justice, it would have been wiser to have made the salaries $1500.

How to Fall.

The largest number of accidents that occurred [illegible] during the late severe weather have brought forth an article on the importance of knowing how to fall safely, which [illegible] and other persons especially liable to falls to lose no time in learning this useful art. One of the first things taught to novices intended for a stage career is to fall gracefully and with the [illegible] and the knack is soon acquired. The principle of falling may be deduced from the fact that a fall, as a rule, injures a drunken man much less than a sober one. The controlling power of the mind being rendered nil through intoxication, the body falls as an inert mass, and thus the chances of injury are lessened. It may appear strange, but it is none the less true, that the most numerous cases of injury arising from a fall are caused by the effort, voluntary or otherwise, to avert the consequences, thus straining the muscles and tendons. From the same simple reason it is seldom that injurious effects follow a fall in a lunatic asylum—the mind has no influence over the action of the body. It is a remarkable fact, well known to those who have to deal with such cases, that whatever injuries are so caused heal much more rapidly than in the case of sane people, the mind having more to do with impeding or assisting nature's effort than is generally known or realized.

Equality of the Sexes.

"The San Francisco Argonaut says that very few men are equal to the task of knocking a woman downstairs. But there is no doubt that the 'equality of the sexes,' which some women claim, is not favorable to connubial happiness. There is no getting away from the proverb that power goes with the beard. It [illegible] cannot submit to her [illegible]. Where a husband and wife differ in opinion one must yield, and cases may occur in which the woman is right and the man wrong. But unless the latter is a fool his superior age and experience and his masculine mind are likely, in an average of cases, to lead him to sounder conclusions than his wife can reach. In a well-regulated household Darby is boss and Joan would not have it otherwise."

IN the opinion of prominent educators the college gymnasium is the place not for the production only of soulless athletics, but of athletic students, a place where an hour's varied exercise, a run, a spray and a rub down can be had regularly, and where a man may turn his thoughts wholly from books and studies for awhile by a bout at fencing, or boxing, or by a game in the bowling alley, or in the handball court, from which he can [illegible] increased capacity for greater and better endeavors. Kept within its proper sphere it is as necessary for the symmetrical and complete development of the young scholar in [illegible] [illegible] the historic lecture or the debating society, and it is as legitimate.

Venable was a lawyer of good family and fair repute as lawyers go, but as sharp as a lancet and equally as keen. Among his clients was a wealthy widow whose ward he found. Pettit was the widow's only son, and though he was up to his ears in love with his foster sister she did not care for him. Widow Pettit died, and her will gave Venable charge of her estate, which was to be equally divided between her son and her foster child who was then a minor. Soon after the lawyer married the girl, and between them they so juggled the securities forming the bulk of Mrs. Pettit's estate that instead of the quarter of a million Jack had good reason to believe would come to him on settlement day he got less than half that sum. Pettit showed neither chagrin nor resentment. He was too proud to go to law, but he had even then begun planning to kill the lawyer. When he was caught, Pettit told me that even after he was safe and Venable was as dead as a dried cod his hate was so hellish that he wished he had to do it all over again. Pettit lived in bachelor quarters on the outskirts of Chicago. Venable's offices, on the ground floor, were in the business part of town. One evening he was found stretched face down on the floor of his front office, his head battered out of shape. A blood-smeared hammer, such as pavers use, lay near him.

Pettit had bought the hammer. After the crime not a trace of him could be found. Rich rewards for his capture were offered. Police of half a dozen States sought him in vain. Then it became common belief that he had taken his own life to avoid capture, and on that presumption search for him was stopped. Yet all the while he was living like a lord in the very heart of Chicago. Just over the way from Venable's place was a building several stories high, filled with offices. Months before the murder Pettit, under a false name, hired three rooms on the top floor, paying a year's rent in advance. He told the agent that he was a chemist from an Eastern city, and explained that while he might not occupy the apartments a month all told, he wanted them chiefly as a storage place for a lot of fragile apparatus of great value. Pettit had inserted in the lease a clause prohibiting any but himself from entering the rooms, for fear they might injure his costly paraphernalia. New locks were put on, Pettit getting the keys. As soon as "Oscar Volckmar, Chemist," was gilded on the outer door Jack began fitting the rooms for six, and if need be twelve, months' sojourn therein. After carpets, rugs, easy chairs, a sofa bed, linen, 200 books, clothing and other necessities were in place, he began laying in his stores. They consisted of 200 pounds of ship biscuit, 50 pounds of Graham crackers, 1 cases of preserved beef, in tins; 3 cases of soups, condensed; 6 dozen cans of fowl, roasted and stewed; 1 dozen crocks of potted game; 2 chunks of smoked beef; 1 dozen molds of pate de foie gras, 2 dozen cans of oysters, pickled, 1 dozen jars of lambs' tongues, pickled; 3 pineapple cheeses, 10 pots of honey, a dozen cans of French peas, 12 glasses of jams and jellies, 1 [illegible] jars of preserved peaches, 1 dozen jars of cherries, a dozen bottles of assorted pickles, 12 quarts of olive oil to be used in lieu of butter, 10 pounds of tea, 2 dozen cans of condensed milk, 2,000 Havana cigars, 5 cases of sparkling wine, 1 case of Burgundy, 12 dozen pints of claret, 2 gallons of brandy, 6 cases of mineral water, a crate of matches, 2 boxes of wax candles, a medicine chest, 15 gallons of oil, an oil stove, chafing dishes, linen and tableware.

These goods were delivered, at a house Jack had rented in a distant part of the town, where he had men pack them in boxes made for the purpose. [illegible] three months working at [illegible] his retreat. [illegible] tended to be removed [illegible] from back [illegible]

They were signed with the name of a man who had known both her and Pettit before. Mrs. Pettit died. The letters came from [illegible]. She at once jumped to the conclusion that Pettit was the writer, for she knew that the person whose name the writer used was then living in Chicago. She hated Pettit as only a woman can. She turned the letters over to my superior, and I caught Pettit in New Mexico. He's now serving a life sentence. So you see that if Jack Pettit hadn't fooled with a pen he'd no doubt be still living on Easy Street, because up to the time he began writing to Mrs. Venable he was as good as dead to the world."

CALL LEADER.

WAS A GOOD MAN.

But the Temptation Was Too Great and He Fell.

Social circles in Atlanta, Ga., are considerably agitated over the sudden departure from that city of Lewis Redwine, cashier of the Gate City National Bank. Simultaneously with Mr. Redwine has disappeared from the bank vaults the modest sum of $8,000. Mr. Redwine has been connected with the bank for fifteen years and is now 35 years old. He was known in Atlanta as a goody goody young man and always occupied a front seat at prayer meeting. He often took the pulpit and preached against gambling and other forms of vice. A leading spirit among church reformers was he. It is no wonder that the circumstances attending his sudden departure have caused a sensation.

The young man's father is discomfited over his son's escapade and would willingly pay the amount, but he cannot command that much money, and the other banks insist that for the sake of the example there must be a rigid prosecution if ever the defaulter is caught.

A Murderer Denounced by His Wife.

James O'Neil, a railroad engineer, whose bravery in the Tay Bridge disaster, years ago, was published and praised, was murdered in Bloomington, Ill. There was no clew to the identity of the murderer until Mrs. Catharine Wheaton, at the grave of O'Neil, in a melodramatic manner, denounced her husband as the guilty man.

A Deathbed Confession.

The following story comes from the town of Gallipolis, Ohio: Charles Heatley and Miss India Watkins of Heatley, Ohio, were recently married at New Philadelphia, Sept. 17, 1891, and nothing was known of their marriage until the other day, when Miss Watkins made a confession a few hours before she died. Miss Watkins was with friends at Uhrichsville when the nuptial knot was tied. She returned to her home at Heatley several months since, and has been confined to her bed with consumption ever since her return. After her confession her parents were in doubt as to whether she was married until Mr. Heatley produced the marriage certificate. The affair has created quite a sensation at Heatley, as both parties are well connected.

Cholerine in Pennsylvania.

Swickley, Penn.. We had an epidemic of cholerine as our physicians called it, in this place lately, and I made a great hit with Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy. OF GENERAL INTEREST.

—From the census report the valuation of wealth in the United States is three times as great as in 1860, and twice as great per capita. Wealth has increased faster than population.

—The last English fashion in the way of dogs is a white collie, a much more sensible craze than most fancies of the past years, for the collie in itself is a beautiful, gentle, affectionate and most intelligent animal. The queen gave one of these pretty creatures to one of her maids of honor as a wedding present the other day.

—The annual report of Director Leech states that the total coinage of the United States mints during the last fiscal year was $43,685,976. The total money in circulation is given as $1,636,[illegible], an average of 24.44 per capita. The profit from seigniorage on silver coinage during the past year was $8,[illegible]187, and for the past fourteen years amounts to $72,[illegible].

—Speaking of wedding gifts, there is nothing more sensible than house linen, and yet it is very rarely given. It is sure to be acceptable in either small or large quantities. And why not blankets also? A pair of the best California would be a welcome addition to the store of any housekeeper, and so much more useful than some small bit of silver that nobody wants.—N. Y. Tribune.

—"In Windsor Castle," says a woman, "I was amused to be rebuked by the pompous cockney who showed us about. We went into a room where were hanging a number of pictures whose painter I had no means of knowing and whose style I did not recognize. 'Who painted these?' I asked of our cicerone. He gazed upon me a glance of lofty reproof. 'You Kmeriki,' he said, coldly, 'to know the works of Kart of your Kown country. Those were painted by Benjamin West, Kan K'American. Did ye never 'ear of him?'"—N. Y. Times.

—On December 26, 1776, the squadron of Sir Peter Parker, bearing between eight and ten thousand men, British and Hessians, commanded by Gen. Clinton and Earl Percy, entered Narragansett bay. The troops landed and took possession of the island of Rhode Island. Two American frigates and some privateers, in the harbor of Newport, fled up the bay to Providence, whence they escaped to sea, eluding the vigilance of the blockading squadron. The British soldiers were billeted on the inhabitants, and a system of general plunder of the people was organized. This was an important acquisition for the British.

—A syndicate, consisting of Cincinnati, Philadelphia and New York capitalists, has secured a tract of land on the St. John and Indian rivers in Florida, eighty-three miles long and three to six miles wide. It has three feet of rich muck, and it is estimated that it will be worth one hundred dollars per acre when drained. Entire cost of improvement is estimated at four millions of dollars. The plan is to plant the land with sugar cane as fast as prepared, and it is claimed that sufficient sugar can be raised to supply the whole of North America. It is entirely a private enterprise and the company has no securities to negotiate.

—When the Mayflower landed at Plymouth in 1620 most of the women and children remained on board until suitable log huts were erected for their reception, and it was March 21, 1621, before they were all landed on the shore. Those on shore were exposed to the rigors of winter weather and insufficient food, though the winter was a comparatively mild one. Those on the ship were confined in foul air, with unwholesome food. Scurvy and other diseases appeared among them, and when, late in March, the last passenger landed from the Mayflower, nearly one-half the colonists were dead. Gov. Carver and his wife died; also the young wife of Edward Winslow, and the wives of Miles Standish and Isaac Allerton, John Allerton and Thomas English died; also the father and mother of Mary Chilton. In some cases whole families perished.

—The landlord of a Florida hotel at which game figured sparsely on the bill of fare had among his guests recently a sporting Englishman who one day made the assertion that there were plenty of ducks and plenty of quail to be had within a few miles of the hotel. The landlord said satirically: "I'll give you fifty cents for every duck you get and twenty-five cents a pair for quail." The Briton, with one man accompanying, set off. At nightfall they returned, and a witness of the incident said: "Well, sir, they just covered the office floor with birds. I never saw anything like it. And the landlord had to pay, too. Yes, sir. He sputtered for awhile about its being unsportsmanlike to sell game, and all that, but he had made a promise and he had to stick to it. Being a mean man it nearly broke his heart, but his guests had all the birds they wanted for the next week."

CHINESE CONTRASTS.

Our Neighbor John and Some of His Queer Ways.

We cannot ignore him, for he is our nearest neighbor in this direction under our feet. Perhaps the fact that he is opposite to us in location may prepare you to learn that he is opposite to us in many other respects.

He studies from dawn till dark while a boy, and walks on stilts, plays ball and marbles and flies kites when he is a man. He is fond of fireworks, but displays them principally by daylight. He rides in boats drawn by men and in a vehicle (which might be called a carriage or a wheelbarrow, according to one's mood) moved by sails. The needle of his compass—the mariner's compass being his own invention, by the way—points to the south; and he talks of the "west-north" or the "east-south," as the case may be. His own name is likewise turned about. If he is John Chinaman with us, he would be Chinaman John at home. In school he sits with his back to the teacher and studies his lesson aloud. The ferule reaches for him if he fails to study loud enough. He dates his letters with the year first, and begins to read on the lower right-hand corner of the last page. If John is mortally offended or insulted, he does not attack his enemy as a hot-headed American might do, but kills himself instead on the enemy's doorstep, and the mourning relatives don white to show their grief.

When John wishes to pay special respect to any one, he keeps his hat on and takes his shoes off in that one's presence. When he meets a friend he grasps and cordially shakes his own hand, leaving the friend to do the same for himself, instead of heartily performing that operation for each other, as we do. If so glad to see each other that handshaking does not express their joy, they rub shoulders until tired out. John shaves, not his face, but his head and eyebrows; he whitens his shoes; he wears a long gown, and carries a fan. He assumes the duties of a milliner, laundress and dressmaker; he pays the doctor as long as he is well, but stops payment as soon as he is ill.—St. Nicholas.

FOR SMALL ROGUES.

Experience as a School for Their Training.

In Paris there still exist schools of crime such as that conducted by Fagin and the Dummy figure which is, from the pockets of which the young pupils have to steal purses and handkerchiefs without making a noise or rousing are still in use. A young pickpocket, who aroused suspicion because he was spending money very freely and who was found to have one's recently stolen a purse containing sixty francs from a lady in an omnibus, has been interviewed on the subject in the prison of La Petite Roquette.

This precious young rascal described how his father had carefully taught him to pick ladies' pockets. "I only pick ladies' pockets," he said. "That is easier than picking men's. With gentlemen it is much more difficult to do the trick without their feeling your hand on them." His "papa" and he, he said, used to travel together in the omnibuses from the Palais Royal to the Bastile. "That was not so good a 'pitch,'" he explained, as the omnibuses from the Madelaine to the Bastile, but these latter were already worked by "Old Mother G.," who, it seems, claimed, and successfully asserted, exclusive privileges with regard to the portable property of passengers on that route. The interviewer, after leaving the lad found himself minus a handkerchief and a half penny, which he had purposely left in his tail pocket as an experiment to see whether he could be relieved of them without his knowledge.

LAUGHED AT EACH OTHER.

But She Laughed Best, for She Had the Last Laugh.

You know how it grates on your finer sensibilities to be laughed at to your face, especially when the laugh is of the harsh, unpolished type. And you know one or more persons who are possessed of such a laugh and such a disposition to use it. Well, there is such a person in Detroit. He is a very well educated man, too, and is especially good in the languages. Not long ago he was talking to a mild-mannered little woman who had asked him a question about a French sentence. He asked her to repeat it. She did so.

"Ha, ha!" he laughed. "Ha, ha! haw, haw!" and the little woman blushed.

"What is it?" she asked very much embarrassed.

"Haw, haw-l-haw, haw-was laughing—haw, haw at your very bad—haw, haw—pronunciation haw, haw."

"Haw, haw, haw," she interrupted, suddenly, "haw, haw; ha, ha, ha, ha," and she kept it up as loud as she could until he began to get red in the face and feel embarrassed himself.

"What is it?" he exclaimed, when she gave him the chance.

"Haw, haw," she responded uproariously: "I was—haw, haw—laughing—haw, haw—at your—haw, haw—very bad—haw, haw—manners—haw, haw. Good morning," and she turned her back on him and hasn't spoken to him since.

Answered.

It is not always safe to be too confident in your assertions, even to an ignorant man, for he may get the better of you in an argument. The truth was well illustrated in a story told at a recent conference in England on technical education in villages. One speaker, referring to the prevalent ignorance about common things, said that he once saw a laborer digging flints in the chalk, and asked him if he thought they grew.

"No," was the reply. "I don't think about it; I knows they do."

"Then place a flint on your chimney-piece, and see how much it grows in a twelve-month."

"All right, sir, and do you do the same with a tater and see how much that grows."

You can be Happy.

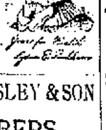

You know you ought to be bright, cheerful, and happy.

You determine each day that you will be happy yourself, and make others so.

The day is not very old before your brightness is gone, your nerves go "all to pieces," and you are helpless on the couch.

You have falling or displacement of the womb,—causing "bearing down feeling" and backache,—perhaps ovarian troubles, with inflammation of the uterus and leucorrhœa.

RAILWAYS AND SHOPS.

A Move to Regulate Grain Traffic During Navigation.

Accidents, Incidents and Personal Mention of the People About the Railway Centers.

The Trunk Line association has taken important steps for regulating the grain traffic during navigation, which if successfully carried out will add thousands of dollars to the treasuries of the interested railroads. The trunk lines have passed resolutions to divide all this east bound traffic that reaches Buffalo and Erie by the lakes in accordance with certain percentages to be determined by the commissioners. The share that each company is entitled to will be based upon the business that it has obtained during the last three years. This is a decidedly new departure. There is reason to believe that the scheme will be a success, inasmuch as the railroads between New York and Chicago are firmly convinced that a pool is the only satisfactory solution of the evils of rate-cutting. The trunk lines have seriously determined this spring to hold their own lake lines in check and with an equitable division of the grain traffic at Buffalo and Erie, where it is turned over to the railroads, they will reduce friction to a minimum. The one essential thing is to get the assurance of the western roads and the Great Northern that they will agree to the plan of the trunk lines, although the latter have always claimed that with the support of the lake lines they controlled the situation. The Great Northern cannot reach New York except over a trunk line which is amendable to the rules. The trunk lines will establish a joint agency in New York to take charge of the grain traffic.

MAN KILLED ON THE LAKE SHORE ROAD

A man's foot was found on the brake beam on the baggage car on Lake Shore train No. 8 last night, on its arrival at Toledo. The leg of the man's pantaloons was found dangling in one of the drive wheels of the engine. The engineer knew nothing of having struck anybody during the trip, but said he felt a slight jar just east of Sylvania. A telegram of inquiry sent to that place solved the mystery. Just east of the station at Sylvania was found the mangled body of John Kennedy, a young man of about twenty-eight years, lying on the track. He had been struck and killed by the train without being seen by the trainmen. The foot was in an upright position on the beam and naked. Kennedy lived with his widowed mother and was unmarried.

A DASTARDLY DEED

An attempt was made at an early hour Wednesday morning to wreck and rob a Grand Rapids & Indiana express train in Randolph county. At a point two miles south of Winchester the splices and spikes were removed from a half dozen rails on the track near a road crossing and a gang of mounted robbers with a wagon was in waiting. The train passed over the rails in safety, but a freight train that followed was ditched and great damage was done. Two of the trainmen were badly injured.

BRIEF MENTION.

The tin roof on the Lake Shore warehouse is being repainted.

Vandorn Root, the lumber dealer, went to Angola on business yesterday.

Paul Louer, who operates an axle lathe at the Bass works, is on the sick list.

A night and day force is employed in the Pittsburg shops at present. Business is brisk.

Boilermaker J. Couderat, of the Pittsburg boiler shops, is off duty on account of sickness.

Agent E. S. Philley, of the Lake Shore, has been confined to his home by sickness for two or three days.

William McC. Grafton, signal engineer of the Pennsylvania system, was a passenger on the east bound limited last night, bound for Pittsburg.

H. C. Hogue, road foreman of engines of the Lansing division of the Lake Shore road, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Hogue's headquarters are at Jackson, Mich.

The carpenters succeeded in completing the roof on the addition to the factory of Ehinsmith & Stevenson last evening, just as the storm broke out in its fury.

J. Wyatt and Frank Opatz of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, are on the absentee list. Mr. Wyatt is sick, while Mr. Opatz is detained at home by the illness of his wife.

Another freight gorge is developing on the Pennsylvania lines. All divisions are pouring business in on the Pennsylvania proper freely, and in turn the latter is delivering immense quantities of westbound freights to its western lines. Added to this, the shipments of freight from Pittsburg westward were never heavier.

Edward Tancey, son of Squire Tancey, has entered the Nickel Plate shops at Stony Island as a machinist's apprentice.

Superintendent E. A. Gould arrived in this city at noon and will remain here until tomorrow. He found everything connected with the Wabash road in good shape in this city.

Charles Thomas, the engineer who pulled the first train over the Niagara Falls division of the New York Central road, died in Rochester, N. Y., yesterday, aged sixty-nine years.

C. V. Reed, operator for the Lake Shore road at Waterloo, visited friends in this city last evening. Mr Reed was formerly day operator in Agent E. S. Philley's office in this city.

The American association of General Passenger and Ticket agents, now in session at Harrogate, Tenn., has decided to hold the semi-annual meeting in September next at Milwaukee.

Arthur Collett was this morning installed in the office of shop clerk at the Wabash shops, vice Mr. Miller, resigned. Mr. Collett was formerly a clerk for the Wabash paymaster, and resided in St. Louis.

The Pennsylvania company has settled with Mrs. A. B. Gable, of Washington township, Whitley county, for damages and injuries sustained in the wreck at Columbia City, February 22. The company paid her $85.

L. Standford reported for duty at the Pittsburg boiler shop yesterday morning, but worked only an hour when his foot became so painful that he had to return home. He had the member burned some time ago.

David Judy had the middle fingers of his left hand nearly severed at the first joint at 9 o'clock last evening. He is a machinist in the Pittsburg shops and the accident happened while putting some heavy pieces of machinery in place.

Pittsburg trainmen who are off duty: Engineer C. C. Ward, sick; Fireman S. Gable and W. R. Pollhouts, sick; Fireman W. Kilgore, baby sick. Engineer D. P. Eldred and Fireman F. M. Enslen have reported for duty after being on the sick list.

S. W. Parkins is here gathering antiquities for the Pennsylvania company's exhibit at the world's fair. He is in search of old tickets, way bills, baggage checks, etc., and will remain here a day or two. Mr. Parkins was at one time master mechanic of the Altoona shops.

Herbert Mohl and Louis Kennaird, students at Purdue university, arrived in the city last evening and will be the guest of their parents over Sunday. The young men are making rapid progress in their studies and will close their first college year June 1. During vacation they will probably work in some Fort Wayne machine shop.

The Pennsylvania has purchased 2,000 tons of 100 pound steel rail, which is to be laid on the Pittsburg division. It will be put down as an experiment, and the result of its withstanding the heavy pounding will be watched with interest. The rail is manufactured at the Maryland steel works. Heretofore the standard steel rail of the Pennsylvania has been eighty five pounds to the yard, although it has in its track a few miles of rail weighing ninety pounds.

Those railroaders and shopmen who made application for membership to Summit City lodge No 36, A. O. U. W., last evening are: John A. Phipps, conductor; Lewis Husler, switchman; Fred Ell, blacksmith; Alfred Baifsneyder, yardmaster; C. E. Howard, carpenter; A. J. Hines, carpenter; S. J. Roberts, carpenter; E. W. Hall, wheelmaker; G. E. Kayser, machinist; Alonzo Schwrank, armature winder; Owen Thompson, carpenter; Christopher Nickerson, conductor; James E. Pike, machinist; Henry F. Hodges, engineer; John P. Herring, conductor; Henry J. Harmeyer, motorman; Abraham J. Grecnich, fireman. Enough other applications were received to make the total twenty two.

Second Vice President and General Manager A. A. Robinson, of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, has tendered his resignation to the two positions to take effect April 3rd. The order promulgated by President Reinhart announcing Mr. Robinson's resignation appoints as his successor as general manager, J. J. Frey and states that the office of second vice president will not at present be filled. Mr. Frey will have direct charge of the operations of the Atchison system proper and will report direct to the first vice president. His office will be at Topeka. President Reinhart, in his order, says that Mr. Robinson resigned to accept service with another company, and it is believed that he will succeed S. H. H. Clark as president of the Union Pacific railroad, though an announcement to this effect cannot be authoritatively made at the present moment.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

Three days is a very short time in which to cure a bad case of rheumatism but it can be done, if the proper treatment is adopted, as will be seen by the following from James Lambert, of New Brunswick, Ill.: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism in the hips and legs, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It cured me in three days. I am all right today, and would insist on every one who is afflicted with that terrible disease to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and get well at once." 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

Wayne Commandery meets for drill tonight.

IMPOSED UPON.

How Quealey, Alias Dunn, Fooled the Y. M. C. A.

He Punched the Bag for Two Weeks But Quit When Brought to Task.

Some unfavorable comment having been made reflecting upon the management of the city department of the Y. M. C. A. for allowing Tim Quealey, the prize fighter to train at that institution previous to the fight at the Princess rink night before last, a Sentinel representative talked with General Secretary Bower this morning relative to the matter. He said, "I don't see how the public can censure us in any way regarding the unfortunate affair when they hear our side of the story. That Quealy did train here a few days is a fact and it is also true that we were imposed upon in the matter. The facts are these: On the 25th of February a young man who said his name was Thomas Dunn, applied to Physical Director Balsley for permission to take exercise in the gymnasium, claiming that he had been suffering with rheumatism in the shoulder. It is not our habit to give full membership tickets to persons who are perfect strangers to us and in this case we gave the young man a conditional permit for one month only. He seemed very quiet and gentlemanly but when he wanted to punch the bag I felt a little suspicious and Mr. Balsley and I watched him pretty closely and came to the conclusion that he was all right. Dunn, as he called himself, came into the gymnasium every afternoon and trained from 2 to 4 o'clock at an hour when there were few if any small boys about. He trained for about two weeks and we again heard rumors. This time we took "Mr. Dunn" to task. He denied that his name was Tim Quealey or that he knew either Quesley or Towsley. This is the last we ever saw of the fellow.

"Towsley at one time belonged to the association, but he came to us with a good recommendation from Chicago, and I also investigated. Later, when we found he was a prize fighter, he was promptly suspended. Our gymnasium is not for these kind of people. I don't think there were a half dozen boys in the gymnasium who knew Dunn was Tim Quealey, the prize fighter. Those who did were very quiet about the matter, and it is not any easy task to find out all these youngsters know. I wish you would say to the parents that all those having boys at the city Y. M. C. A., or those contemplating sending boys, are earnestly requested to call any time and investigate as to its moral effects. I think they will be perfectly satisfied."

MINISTERS WILL MEET.

The North Indiana Conference of the M. E. Church

Will Convene at Mishawaka Next Week —The Pastors Who Will Be Returned to This City.

The North Indiana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which embraces the churches of this denomination in the Fort Wayne district, will meet at Mishawaka next Wednesday and remain in session until April 3, with Bishop I. W. Joyce presiding.

Next Monday evening Rev. A. W. Lamport will preach the conference sermon, and on Tuesday the semi-centennial of the opening of the fiftieth session of the conference will be celebrated. The speakers on this occasion will be Rev. Thomas Stabler, D. D., Rev. A. E. Mahin, D. D., Rev. W. D. Parr, D. D. and others.

The Epworth league anniversary services will be held on Wednesday afternoon, with an address by the general conference secretary, Rev. Edwin A. Schell, of Chicago.

The anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary society will be held on Thursday afternoon, with an address by Mrs. E. L. Albright, of Delaware, Ohio, and the Woman's Foreign Missionary society on Friday afternoon, when Mrs. Dr. Stephens, of Peoria, India, will speak.

The business session of the conference will open next Wednesday morning, the Methodist ministers from this city, Revs. A. E. Mahin, G. N. Eldridge, M. S. Marble, W. R. Wones, Henry Bridge and J. W. Welsh leaving here Tuesday noon, over the Lake Shore road, to attend and not returning until the following Tuesday.

The history of the North Indiana conference dates back to 1844. What was known as the Indiana conference was organized in 1832. Previous to that time Indiana was embraced in what was called the Illinois conference. In 1844 this state was divided into two conferences by the national road running east and west through the center of the state and they were called the Indiana and the North Indiana conferences.

In 1852 a further division was made and four conferences were the result—the Indiana, the South Indiana, the North Indiana and the Northwest Indiana. Some changes have been made since then in the conference boundaries, and what was then known as the South Indiana conference is now designated as the Southeast conference. With these modifications the Indiana conferences remain the same as constituted in 1852.

The North Indiana conference stands at the head of the list and is one of the strongest. It is composed of six districts of about twenty-five charges each, embracing within its boundaries Fort Wayne, Goshen, Kokomo, Muncie, Columbia City, Warsaw and Richmond. The territory covered by the conference is pretty well indicated by the towns which head the districts.

One of the most important features of business to be transacted at each session of the conference is the assignment of pastors to charges. Methodist ministers are reassigned to congregations every year and they are liable to have their homes changed that often, but they generally remain at one place two, three, four or five years, the five years limit having been only adopted recently.

Rev. G. N. Eldridge the pastor of the Wayne street church of this city has been in Fort Wayne something over two years, having been transferred from the west when Dr. Barnes left. He is one of the best pulpit orators in the city and will be returned here by the conference.

Rev. M. S. Marble, the pastor of the Berry street church, will also be returned. He came here from North Manchester and is now just closing his first pastoral year in Fort Wayne. He is a young man, an excellent worker, an eloquent speaker and is popular with his people.

Rev. W. R. Wones came here two years ago as the pastor of the Trinity M. E. church. He has done good work and the church has prospered under his charge.

Rev. Henry Bridge, the pastor of St. Paul church, was sent to this city by the conference two years ago and has done efficient and successful work.

Rev. J. W. Welch came to Fort Wayne a year ago last November, succeeding Rev. W. R. Suman as pastor of the Simpson church. He has given excellent satisfaction to his congregation having nearly paid off the church debt, and the official board of his charge have petitioned the presiding elders of the district for his return.

Rev. A. E. Mahin, the presiding elder of the Fort Wayne district, whose home is in this city, will be continued in that position for another year. The limit of the term of presiding elders is six years and Rev. Mahin is just now closing his fifth year as such. He is a scholarly gentleman, a fine pulpit orator and deservedly popular with all.

Rev. D. C. Woolpert, formerly pastor of the Berry street M. E. church, now presiding elder of the Goshen district, will be continued in that position.

Rev. J. M. Driver, formerly of the Simpson church, may be transferred from Columbia City, his present charge, to Goshen which will offer him a better and wider field for his brilliant attainments.

The conference year just closing, The Sentinel is told, has been a prosperous one for the Methodist congregations of this city and each of the ministers will make good reports of the work done. The Methodists are one of the strongest denominations in Fort Wayne. Their membership is something over 1,200, embracing a population which are thrown under church influences of about 1,800 persons. The proceedings of their coming conference will be watched with interest and The Sentinel will publish all the interesting details of the session each day.

LOVED THE MAN WHO BEAT HER

Returning to Consciousness Her First Thought Was of Her Husband.

The clanging bell of the hospital ambulance had warned the pedestrians and the street was clear when the vehicle rattled up to the door of the big double-decker New York tenement.

"Mugsey's done it this time for fair, doctor!" shouted one of the crowd that had gathered on the sidewalk as the young ambulance surgeon disappeared in the doorway.

Up two flights and at the back the doctor found a white-faced old woman who told him in awed whispers that she was afraid her son had killed his wife.

"He's a good boy when he's sober, sir, but it's the drink that makes him beat her," pleaded the old mother, as the doctor hurried into the room at the back.

There on a cot under the window lay the unconscious form of a young woman, who would have been rather pretty but for the bruises that her husband's fists had left on her pale face. A quick examination showed that she was only stunned, and the restorative which the doctor gave her had almost immediate effect.

"Where's Mugsey, mam?" she asked of the old woman almost as soon as she opened her eyes.

"Here I am," answered a voice from the fire escape, and "Mugsey" clambered in the window as the disgusted doctor hurried out of the door.

An Unpleasant Errand

In copse-shooting in England, it is quite as desirable to know who and where the sportsmen are, as to ascertain the whereabouts of the game. "Who is that on my left?" inquired one sportsman of a game keeper, one day, when the hunting season was at its height. "That must be Lord Jay," said the keeper, after a moment's reflection. "Go and tell him where I am," said the other, whose former experience told him that caution was desirable. "I'd rather not," said the keeper; "Lord Jay he always fires when 'e sees hanything move!"

Lovers of elocution should hear Mr. Schrader tonight at the International Business college. He has a fine reputation as a reader.

OVER in Oakland, Cal., somebody whom a misguided miracle must have interposed to save from the gallows placed powder in a furnace. When fire was lighted above it the powder acted in the peremptory fashion that is known to be its wont. If this is a practical joke, a jest in keeping with its spirit of merriment would involve ten years in the penitentiary.

A Modern Eden.

Up North farmers toil, sweat and fertilize to eke the barest living from their worn out soil, while North Galveston fruit lands will yield from $225.00 to $1,000.00 per acre with half the labor. This gulf region offers to farmers, manufacturers and invalids everything to be desired.

The climate is mild and healthful twelve months in the year, the land bristles with manufacturing resources and is a farmer's paradise. If you've the slightest tinge of curiosity about this industrial spot, apply to Wm. Miller, No. 5 West Main street, the local agent of the North Galveston Association. The address of the general office is, Box 205, Minneapolis, Minn.

Many Fort Wayne people have heard Mr. Schrader in single recitation. Hear him tonight in a full program at International Business college. Admission 25c.
